Local Retailers Combine to Promote Home-Buying

Sports Highlights: Ellen and Frank Still the "Champs"

Fernie Player Sets Record as Title Winner; Ellen Hughes Fifth Year as Champion.

In League Football Coleman and Fernie Tie 2-2; Coleman Tennis Players Defeat Pincher Creek.

Coleman and Frank Hughes retained their golf championships at Crows Nest tournament. Miss Hughes set a record by winning her fifth championship while Frank has won the honor three times.

Meeting Mrs. Kerr in the final Miss Hughes took a three-hole lead in the first nine holes and finished the game on the thirteenth to win 6 and 5. Frank, playing against Metcalf of Lethbridge, took a two-hole lead in the first nine holes and increased it to three holes to win 3 and 2.

Geo. Pattinson gained the inner circle of the veterans' event, going to the semi-finals before meeting defeat. Other local entrants were H. C. McBurney, W.
L. Rippon, R. F. Barnes and R.
Pattinson.

Members of the tennis club were hosts to approximately twenty members of Pincher Creek club on Sunday. Play started at 1 p.m. and was interrupted several times by rain, players deciding to finish the pick-when a thunder-storm came up.
Twenty-five sets were played, Coleman winning the majority owing to greater experience than their younger opponents.

Pincher Creek have a young and promising club, with thirty members, although this is the first year they have been organized. The visiting players will return the visit next Sunday. The refreshment committee served tea during the afternoon.

It is proposed by Coleman to form a tennis club in the Pass. The coming tennis team from Lethbridge, Macleod, Pincher and Coleman. Delegates from Lethbridge and Macleod will be asked to attend a meeting at Pincher next Sunday. Coleman also proposes to hold a team which will be in competition in the Pass for a number of years and is held by the club having the strongest team in the league.

They will give that shield for competition in the new league and try and bring tennis back to the position it formerly enjoyed in the Pass.

meeting was held at Coleman on Sunday when delegates from Fernie,

Michel, Coleman, Lethbridge, Galt
Miners and Lethbridge football associations were present.

Much discussion took place of the view held by the Lethbridge association regarding the proposed merger of playing in the Crow's Nest league.

It is their desire to have a representation of two members sit in on the Crow's association and allow the Crow's team to have only one representative

as laid down in the D.F.A. rules.

Strong opposition was expressed against this arrangement and a resolution was passed, copies to be sent to all the Crow's Nest associations and the rules of the Crow's Association or else demand their resignation to the Crow's League.

With twelve minutes to go until the final whistle and holding a 2-0 lead over their Fernie opponents,

Coleman Rangers were well on the way to victory when a lightning bolt struck the goal post and escaped the grasp of one part of the forward line as the ball went past him.

It was a quick kick and the ball was in the net.

With the ball in the net, the players were still in the middle of the field

when the referee blew his whistle.

Coleman put Coleman two up midway through the second half when he scored a goal which tickled

Colman. With time growing short, Atkinson replaced Wanock at centre for Fernie.

The B.C. club started to press and bottled

Colman left his goal in an attempt to clear what resulted in J. Anderson pulling the ball down with his hands to stop a sure goal and give the Fernie team a penalty.

E. Leslie Gray Heralded New Liberal Leader

Indications Are He Will Receive General Support From Those Desirous of Seeing Same Administration Given Government.

Coleman delegation to the important Liberal convention at Calgary turned very enthusiastic in their praise of the new leader, J. S. D'Ap-polonia, Mike Kish, A. M. Morrison of Coleman, C. J. Tompkins and Mrs.
Aitchison of Pincher Creek, represented
the Pass. J. L. Morgan

being unable to attend.

Though no official statements have been given out by leaders of other political parties, it is believed that they have privately expressed their approval in approving terms of the 42-year-old agriculturist who was chosen by the largest Liberal convention which had been assembled in Calgary since prior

G. Kellock, of Coleman, was among those attending, and was appointed to the resolutions committee. Ex-Member of Parliament, president of the provincial association. Mr. Gray told the convention it was his intention to call into conference representatives of all parties with a view to uniting all of them in a political party.

It is interesting to note that Liberal represent a minority vote, as parties opposed to them polled a total of 239,600.

B.C. ELECTION FIGURES

These unrevised figures show the

Talk of Pat Brewster Being Nom-

by Liberals

It is rumored that Pat Brewster, Banff, will be favored for the provincial nomination at the next provincial

For their good work, it is indicated gratifying that it should be so recognized, and Coleman people will join in congratulations to the local Elks and appreciate the fact that their good work has been recognized.

CHERRY TREE IN COLEMAN

Most people would express surprise to learn that there is a cherry tree in blooming bloom on the 15-acre ranch of John J. Anderson at Graftontown. The blooms had died off somewhat on June 1, but there were still blooms on June 10. It is a pruned tree which was planted a year ago. He hopes to pick cherries later on. He also has black and white currants, gooseberries and many kinds of vegetable gardens in his home. Ground peanuts and water-melons are also being attempted.

He also has 19 head of foxes which are good healthy specimens. He has lived on the ranch for 16 years.

MAYOR TO EDMONTON

Major George Pattinson is attending the municipal convention being held this week, representing Coleman town council. There are several matters pertaining to taxation that he intends to have brought up for discussion.

GO EAST, YOUNG MAN

The youth of the community are encouraged to get east and to wear west coal is to sell it to them as cheaply as possible. That's the place to do the work. Everyone interested in the coal industry in Saskatchewan and Manitoba would be welcome to do so. No need to talk to western people about that. Save the words and the money to be used among the people whom you want to buy the coal.

Taxation On Improvements

Single Tax Association of Canada
Issues Final Statement on This Much Debated Subject

In view of recent complaints of prejudice expressed here, the following will prove of interest, which is re-published without comment:

What is termed Real Estate or Real Property, as distinct from personal property, consists of two separate and distinctive different things.

"Land" is the gift of the Creator.
It cannot be produced by man. Neither can man increase nor decrease the quantity of land.

"Improvements" are the result of human labor. They can be increased by man's skill and effort; or they can be reduced in quantity or in quality.

They can be removed, wholly or in part, from one plot of land to another; or they can be destroyed all this by human labor.

A tax on land has an entirely different effect from that which a tax on buildings has.

A tax on land reduces the share of the owner which he can collect for its use, and so reduces the selling value, but without reducing the value to the user. For example: A certain lot is worth $1,000 a year. If a tax of $100 is levied upon this lot, the owner will receive $900 a year to sell for $800 with money with $50 at 5%.

This will make a difference of $100.
The user will pay $30 to the city and $10 to the owner, a total of $80. However the value of $80 a year is between the owner and the city, and whatever the effect on the selling value, the user will pay $80 and no more being attempted.

He also has 19 head of foxes which are good healthy specimens. He has lived on the ranch for 16 years.

Aggressive Cam- paign Launched To Develop Trade

Enterprising Retailers By Co-Operative Planning Give Customers Benefit.

Coleman Purchasers Attention Directed to Co-Operative Advertising and Merchandising Campaign.

Attention of buyers is directed to the special advertising in this issue of the rule for Coleman merchants to deal with the people carrying along many of their goods in meeting competition in order that they may receive the best prices possible.

No town ever prospered by the money which is earned there being spent elsewhere, and this rule applies to the buyer as well as the seller. If a town progresses, all share directly or indirectly in the benefits that it receives. This is the basis of the loyalty practised for it is only by reciprocal treatment that mutual ben-fit may be derived.

Good business practice and loyalty to your home town should prompt you to buy from Coleman merchants.
When subscriptions for this and that are needed, or credit to tide over a hard spot, it is the local business man who can be relied upon to help.
Distant fields always appear greener than they really are, likewise cut prices are not such bargains as they appear when other factors are considered.

The following merchants invite your attention to their display advertisements:

Coleman Cash Grocery, J. M. Allan,

Coleman Co-Operative Association,

A. Olivia, Mgr.,

Walter Bobbitt, West Coleman,

Zeno Propst,

J. W. Shields, West Coleman,

W. Ferby, East Coleman,

S. Janostak,

Harold Zale's Meat Market,

Coleman Meat Market, N. Burnick,

Prop.

Ed. Ledic's Store.

It is good business to deal at any of the above where you receive value, service and the satisfaction of dealing with your home town retailers.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

GOLFERS may have had their enthusiasm slightly dampened by showers during the tournament, but farmers on the prairies sang songs of praise. To add to the chorus, Father Aberhart hints that his prayers, too, have been answered, for he had been exhorting the people to pray.

LIBERAL delegates from this southern portion of Rocky Mountain provincial constituency took part in the nomination of E. Leslie Gray as leader in Alberta. This is a case of the job seeking the man. So often the man seeks the job in political preferment, with self-aggrandizement as the motive force. Not so with Mr. Gray, who plainly intimated that he did not wish to be shackled with traditions of past years in an effort to establish sane administration in Alberta governmental affairs.

PROBABLY the Liberal candidate will come from the north for the next election. Banff is the point which will have the distinction of nominating a candidate, which is as it should be. The southern portion of the constituency has for several elections taken the leading part in provincial campaigns. Banff has been somewhat aloof, being in the national park area; but it has always turned out a good vote in support of party candidates. In 1935 it, too, was smitten with the Social Credit bug, though Don MacNeil, Liberal, was next best.

LABOR will in all probability nominate a Blairmore man, Enoch Williams, mayor, being talked of. Of course, Social Credit will again have a candidate, therefore it is almost a foregone conclusion that it will be a three-candidate fight. There is not much likelihood of Harvey Murphy horning in, with Enoch Williams in the field. It is early to speculate on an election, as the present legislature has three years to run, though with the present confused condition existing, anything may happen.

OPPORTUNITIES abound for progress; the wise man will keep his vision clear and his mental faculties alert to take advantage of opportunities. Ever looking upward and onward will keep you out of a rut, which to many eventually becomes a grave. Every individual, business-man or wage-earner has opportunities for advancement. If you turn your face to the sunshine, the shadows fall behind you. Remember, your mind is supreme and should govern your actions towards goodwill and happiness. Discipline of the mind is essential to happiness, and freedom.

MEMBERS of service clubs in Calgary and Lethbridge at various times have proposed organizing a Rotary or Kiwanis club among the business and professional men of the Pass towns. Cities and towns having these clubs have benefitted materially from their activities, community life has quickened and a more friendly spirit has developed between men, which in turn has resulted in marked influence for good throughout the entire community. There is indeed ample scope for a service club in this group of towns. It would mean so much in developing community goodwill and progressive activities.

NOW that so many people have nice gardens, time is ripe to organize a better gardens competition and give prizes to those adjudged the best. It would be an easy matter to have entries made by a stated date and judging arranged. Let's here from the gardeners what they think of the proposal.

ONE of the first things that should be done in this province when the present government is through is to cut down the number of legislative members and thereby make a start on reducing the excessive cost of government. Taxation has been heavily increased in the past eighteen months, yet public services have suffered, particularly road maintenance, resulting in loss of tourist traffic and the revenue that accrues therefrom.

AS SUBJECT debated by the school trustees is the cost of high school education. Basing the teaching cost on the present salaries paid to teach 100 pupils, it works out at $90 per pupil annually. This does not include the other costs entering into operation, maintenance, supplies, and incidentals, which would add considerably to the annual cost per pupil.

Under the plea of economy, the trustees propose to eliminate the cost of the supervisor of music for the high and public schools, which is $750 per annum for one-and-a-half days per week teaching in Coleman. Approximately sixty days would be given to supervision in Coleman schools, the balance of the school week being in other Pass schools under the contract terms.

With the exception of opinions expressed in letters to this paper, there has been indifference on the part of ratepayers. As the opinion of the majority is the gauge which should guide the trustees, and the matter is worthy of careful consideration, would it not be advisable to obtain a more general expression of ratepayers' opinion before decisive action is taken? The indifference so far indicates that the majority of parents do not care. Expenses must necessarily not be allowed to become out of proportion to value received, as tax payers have to foot the bill, therefore a more general opinion on this matter would be welcomed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(The editor is not responsible for opinions expressed in letters to the Press, and reserves the right to reject any communication submitted. Publication must not be taken as an endorsement of opinion or policies.—H.T.H.)

To the Coleman Journal,
As a ratepayer, may I ask a few questions?

Is there on the present school staff a teacher qualified to teach music in the public school who has a professional standing and experience in music equivalent to that of the present teacher?

Does the school board realize that "major part of the salary" means more than half of the salary?

Is this a just representation of facts?

The Pass school boards receive a special government grant for music, 90¢ per teaching day, which covers travelling expenses.

Has the school board forgotten the public concert put on by Mr. Moffatt in the spring of 1935; or the public school concert for which he did his share of training in the spring of 1936?

That the board contemplates lowering the mill rate is a surprise not to be forgotten. Coleman school assessment in 1936 was $1,886,540. It is difficult to understand how a saving of $750 per annum can enable them to make an appreciable reduction of the mill rate.

Yours truly,
B. GRAHAM.

CONCERT FRIDAY EVENING

Miss B. A. Carter, of Hillcrest teaching staff, has engaged the Community hall for a variety concert on Friday evening, June 18, in aid of the 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Carter, who is suffering with a broken leg. The parents are on relief and Miss Carter is endeavoring to raise some financial help by bringing the children of her class here to give a concert. The support of the people of The Pass is asked for this deserving case.

The product that is advertised in The Journal is worthy of your confidence.

RADIO DIRECTS CANADA'S FASTEST PLANE

THE fastest airplane in Canada became the property of the Dominion Government this month as officials of the Civil Aviation Branch of the Department of Transportation accepted the swift silvery Lockheed 12-A from Fairchild Limited. This ship is shown at St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, where it will undergo exhaustive tests before being put into regular service. The new plane is the first of its kind to be used for passenger transport.

Propelled by twin 420 horsepower constant speed motors, the adjustable pitch propellers drive this silver streak at a top speed of 245 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 212 miles an hour at 11,000 feet. Every modern improvement for comfort and safety, including the latest Northern Electric Radio Beacon and two-way communication equipment have been built into this state-of-the-art monoplane aeroplane which will be recognizable by its letters "CFCY".

Four Men Remain Near North Pole To Spend A Year

Moscow.—Four men and a dog were left on a drifting ice floe near the north pole to spend a year gathering scientific data to enrich Soviet Russia's knowledge of the top of the world.

The four planes of the Soviet union's north pole expedition Saturday left the base camp established by the pathfinder plane May 21 near the pole.

Five and a half hours later three arrived at the expedition's base at Rudolf Island, 560 miles from the pole. The fourth plane was down about halfway.

When the pilots decided they had not enough fuel to carry all back to Rudolf Island, the expedition leader, Dr. Otto J. Schmidt, directed three should borrow gasoline from the fourth, A. I. Alexieff. All four planes started together and flew in convoy until they reached the 85th parallel, about 350 miles from the pole.

Then Alexieff burrowed downward through the clouds and found a landing place on the ice where he will wait until fuel can be flown to him. The pilots who returned to the base with about 30 comrades were Mikhail Vodopyanoff, who flew the first plane to the pole, Vasily Molotov and N. P. Mirovskiy.

The little dog is expected to be an important member of the group at the pole, giving warning of the approach of marauding animals.

The four men who stayed behind were Ivan Papinin, veteran of the Arctic and leader of the group; Ernst Krenkel, radio operator, who went to the Antarctic with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in 1929; Pyotr Shirof, hydrobiologist, and Eugene Fedoroff, Magnetologist.

During their year at "the birthplace of weather," the four will live in a specially constructed fur and eiderdown lined hut and eat specially concentrated foods.

A blizzard was developing as the quartette began their long vigil. Temperature was 24.8 zero Fahrenheit; barometric pressure, 1006.1; visibility, 2½ to six miles, with closing 300 metres.

The camp, originally located within 13 miles of the pole, had drifted about 75 miles from the pole.

Negro Is Honored

Scientific Genius Of Man Who Was Born In Slavery

Tuskegee, Ala.—Southern notables of two races paid honor to the scientific genius of a humble negro who was born in slavery and once was traded for a horse.

The man is George Washington Carver, the occasion an unveiling of a bronze bust bought by dollar contributions of his admirers.

Before he turned a year ago to experimenting with peanut oil as a massage for relief of infantile paralysis victims, he discovered scores of everyday uses for sweet potatoes, peanuts and trees.

From these products he developed milk, ink, pigments, cosmetics, paper, and even imitation marble.

Grey Owl Goes East

Prince Albert, Sask.—Grey Owl, and Mrs. Grey Owl, are here for Grey Owl, to make the second part of a two-part motion picture depicting life on the Indian trail during winter and summer in Canada. The first part was made in Quebec last winter. Later they will leave for a lecture tour of the United Kingdom.

Car Drivers Strike

New York.—A strike by 400 armored car drivers and guards paralyzed shipments of gold and silver bullion in New York. Union officials said transportation of "at least $1,000,000" and probably more in bullion, payroll moneys and securities will be held up until the strike is settled.

Canadian Penal System

Would Place All Jails And Prisons Under Federal Administration

Winnipeg.—Revision of the Canadian penal system to place all jails and prisons under federal administration was recommended by the Manitoba government to the royal commission investigating penal institutions.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault of the superior court of Quebec, received the recommendations at the first session here.

The Manitoba government brief, prepared by Attorney-General W. J. Major, suggested causes and prevention of crime be first objects of study. Revision of the criminal code to permit payment of fines by installments was recommended to reduce numbers jailed through inability to pay fines.

Annuities For The King

Provided For In Bill Passed By British House

London.—The House of Commons gave third reading to the bill known as the civil list, providing annuities to the king and other members of the royal family for the duration of the present reign.

The vote was 199 to 123 with the royalist opposing it. The measure was widely debated prior to second reading when Labor urged the wife of the monarch be made simpler and "more in keeping with democratic conditions."

A money bill, it does not go to the house of lords.

ANNOUNCES ELECTIONS

Defence Equipment

Contracts Awarded For More Than Fourteen Million Dollars

Ottawa.—Contracts for more than $14,000,000 for military, naval and air equipment have been awarded within recent weeks, Hon. Norman Rogers, acting minister of national defence, announced.

Details were not made public, but Mr. Rogers said about $10,000,000 of the contracts will be spent in Canada.

This follows the expanded defence program announced in parliament at the past session. National defence department main estimates for the present fiscal year jumped off $33,730,873, an increase of $14,368,434 from the previous fiscal year.

In addition parliament this year voted $2,201,000 for the purchase of the destroyers Fraser and St. Lawrence, bought in the fiscal year ended March 31 last.

The $33,730,873 was composed of $17,850,425 for militia services, $4,456,810 for the naval service and $11,391,650 for the Royal Canadian Air Force.

"In general," Mr. Rogers said, "the contracts have been let after public advertisement and tenders. In certain cases where competitive bids were not practicable owing to the specialized character of the equipment required, the financial provisions of the contracts have been approved by an inter-departmental committee set up for this purpose."

"In some instances where the requirements of the department could not be supplied by Canadian manufacturers orders have been placed in Great Britain through the office of the high commissioner for Canada."

There was no member of the royal family, other than the duke himself, among the bare half-hundred within the castle walls.

A French civil service and an Anglican altar started life anew after 40 for the man who was king and for the woman who could never be queen.

The clergyman, Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, of St. Paul's church, Dartington, Eng., came to Monts of Jardine and without the consent of his superior performed the religious ceremony. The Bishop of Fulham, in charge of continental Anglican churches, issued a statement to the effect he had not given permission for the ceremony and that Jardine was acting on his own initiative.

Recently by decree in the London Gazette it was announced the bride could not be designated "her royal highness" following the wedding, although she chose to be styled "the Queen." The largest share of the contracts is for the air force $6,857,352, of which it is estimated $4,216,066 will be spent in this country.

The same scheme is waiting for Alberta," Mr. Gardner declared. "It is not a party thing. Relief and debt adjustment go beyond party."

He declared adjustment of debts should be made at the earliest possible moment.

The voluntary scheme, he said, "has been in the power of the Alberta government to establish since Sept. 1, 1935. This debt adjustment scheme which has been introduced in Saskatchewan through co-operation of the provincial and federal governments and municipalities has not been applied in Alberta. It should be introduced no matter what party is in power."

The conference opened what officials said was an explanatory discussion of the Lyons proposal, placed before the Empire gathering at its opening May 15.

The Australian premier considerably amplified his original proposal, asserting now is the time for arranging a guarantee of "peace in the Pacific." When Lyons offered his suggestion most observers believed he had in mind principally Australia, since Australia is the British dominion holding nearly all power.

Authorities close to the conference said there was little prospect of definite action by the conference on the part, but Great Britain and the dominions will investigate its possibilities after the dominions' delegates return home.

Simpler Tax In England

Will Be Based On The Profits Of Industry

London.—Prime Minister Chamberlain, stating "I can get a larger amount and in a better way," withdrew the bitterly-assailed national defence contribution—the tax on growth of profits—and announced in the House of Commons it would be replaced by a simpler tax on profits.

Chamberlain, who himself introduced the budget prior to his elevation to the prime minister's post, did not supply details of the projected simpler tax. He stated, however, they did not involve increases in either income taxes or indirect taxation but would be based on the profits of industry.

"My record does not include pig-headed obstinacy," he declared, in conceding much alarm was felt over the growth of profits tax.

He explained the new proposals will give new financial resources before they could be embodied into the finance bill. Therefore the first intimation the House will have of the nature of the proposals will be when Sir John Simon, Chamberlain's successor as chancellor of the exchequer, issues the new resolution.

Loss of Mola was considered a tremendous blow to Franco's campaign at Bilbao.

General Mola was flying from Vitoria to Burgos in a bi-motor plane. The pilot, Captain Chamorro, apparently lost his bearings and smashed the plane against a mountain slope while flying low trying to get out of a fog bank.

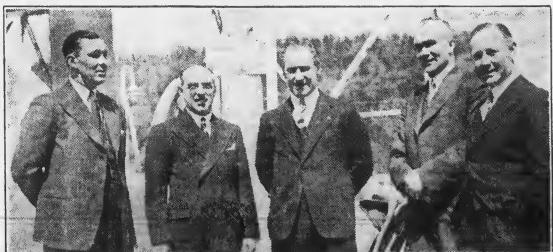

Within three hours of the tragedy, General Franco issued a decree splitting command of insurgent northern armies in two.

General Fidel Dávila, hitherto head of the technical units of the insurgent regime, was appointed to command forces operating against Bilbao and the Biscay front.

General Saliquet, commander of operations on the Madrid front, one of the technical units of the insurgent forces on Aragon, Soria and Madrid fronts. General Queipo de Llano retained command of southern armies.

On their arrival at Quebec on the Empress of Australia, Charlton Athletic's soccer team, which will tour Canada and the United States, was welcomed to the Dominion by Sam Davidson, secretary of the Dominion Football Association. In the group above are, left to right: Harold Turner, Captain of the team; Dr. J. Montgomery, medical officer; James Seed, manager of the club; Sam Davidson, and Dr. D. H. Clark, a director of the Charlton Club. The visiting footballers will start the Canadian part of their tour in Western Canada early in June.

Authorities close to the conference said there was little prospect of definite action by the conference on the part, but Great Britain and the dominions will investigate its possibilities after the dominions' delegates return home.

Mortgage and loan companies had co-operated in Saskatchewan and agreement reached benefiting those by "common cause" conferences. The whole scheme, he said was voluntary.

Calgary.—An agricultural administrator, E. L. Gray, of Brooks, Alta., a former provincial civil servant, was elected leader of the Alberta Liberal party at the provincial convention.

From the convention platform, Mr. Gray announced he would immediately seek the aid of other political groups in Alberta to lay plans for the promotion of a "sound, business government."

Speaking briefly, with Mr. Gardner, Mr. Gray, newly elected provincial leader, appealed for the establishment of a broad, political movement which would appeal to all the men and women in Alberta.

"March forward for a business government for Alberta," he declared.

Federal and provincial associations of the Alberta Liberal party will not amalgamate, it was decided at the provincial convention here.

Members of the federal association approved of a fusion plan but speakers for the provincial organization were opposed. Finally, after a long debate, the plan was tabled.

The convention, attended by more than 700 delegates, dealt with proposed platform planks during the afternoon session, and approved the following:

An educational program advocating equality for all children; educational and agricultural education principles of state medicine, and the ear-marking of gasoline tax funds for highway construction and maintenance.

Approval was given a proposal for launching an Alberta weekly newspaper, if sufficient funds are subscribed, as editor with Mr. Davidson as editor. Mr. Davidson is a resident of Victoria, has offered to serve as editor without remuneration. He is the former publisher of the Calgary Albertan.

Another resolution favoring the creation of an independent, nonpartisan civil service commission was passed.

"Mortgaging loyalty" to Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, was voted in a tribute paid the federal Liberal leader by W. S. Campbell, of Edmonton, vice-chairman of the association.

"I look forward to the day he will play an ever more important part in the affairs of this Dominion," Mr. Hepburn said.

Premier Hepburn attended his attack on the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization and declared there should be no lawlessness in Ontario begotten by the C.I.O. or any like organization as long as he was premier.

"I can't speak for Canada because we have a vacillating government at Ottawa," Mr. Hepburn added.

A few minutes before Mr. Hepburn came to his repudiation of the federal premier, the man for whom two years ago he stumped Canada from Atlantic to Pacific and northward the patient during an operation.

Some receiving relief should be classed as "objects of public charity," declared Premier Hepburn, deplored what he declared to be a trend of people to lean on the government.

Industry and thrift were penalized in that those who practiced them had to provide for those that did not.

Mr. Hepburn said he doubted present prosperity in Canada is fundamentally sound. Feverish buying by Europe preparing for war has promoted it.

So long as United States maintained the present gold price, business revival could not be seriously prejudiced, declared the premier.

He likened the United States government gold buying policy to the position of a man with a bear by the tail. He would like to let go but can't. Neither dare the United States stop buying gold.

Mr. Hepburn discussed the C.I.O. He declared lawlessness seemed rampant in the United States because of "one man."

What had happened there will never happen in British dominions, he declared. He said an organizer for the C.I.O. at Windsor had openly advocated sit-down strikes.

"There will be no lawlessness in Ontario begotten by the C.I.O. or any like so long as I'm premier," he declared.

"I can't speak for Canada because we have a vacillating government at Ottawa."

Taxation, Improvements

land. It prevents the erection of buildings until the shortage of supply will enable the builders to exact a premium for the amount of tax in addition to the land and tax on improvements is excessive, building will cease. More than that, unoccupied buildings will be torn down by their owners except the tax. Make the tax on buildings high enough and land will become valueless, as is now the case with thousands of vacant lots in Toronto and other cities.

How this works out is well illustrated by the incident recorded by a city builder as follows: He was offered as a gift several lots in a town in Ontario, the lots being assessed at $100 each and valued by the owner at two or three times the assessed value. The gift was offered on condition that the builder would erect suitable houses on them. There was a shortage of houses in the town and one of the town industries was suffering a labor shortage through lack of housing accommodation. The houses would readily sell at a price that, under ordinary conditions, would yield a fair return on the investment. Before accepting the proposition the builder investigated the town's assessment. He found that the houses would be assessed at 36 mills, a rate that would destroy investment. In plain words, the lots were not worth accepting as a gift. The builder transferred the lots to another place at which the tax on buildings was only half as much.

When Vancouver exempted new buildings from taxation, about 30 years ago, the effect was to so encourage the erection of buildings that population flocked to the city and values increased to nearly $2,000 per capita because the privilege of putting up an untaxed building was a valuable right, like all other advantages which are common to assesses, whether of location or public service, it increased the selling value of land and nothing else. The tax rate was limited by Provincial law to 20% of the assessed value, but as the need of revenue increased, they reverted to the taxation of improvements 50% of their value instead of increasing the tax rate on land values. Are Buildings Undesirable?

It would seem that the originators of our tax system regarded buildings as the most undesirable of all forms of labor products. We let a capitalist tax on bath tubs nor furnaces, but let a builder incorporate these very necessary things in houses in Town, the builder will be taxed at a rate of 35 mills on the dollar of value. This is equal to a mortgage of 70% of the cost at 5% per annum. In other words, the city confiscates 70% of all the labor and the material employed in the erection of buildings. Is it any wonder that little or no building is done?

A tax on the value of land is simply a tax for the community value created by the community, as the higher the percentage of the annual value so taken the less money is required to acquire land for use. The lower the tax rate on land the higher the tax rate on buildings and profit on the forester and the speculator. The higher the tax rate on buildings the fewer buildings will be erected, thus causing employment and increasing the number of relief.

Cause of Unemployment.

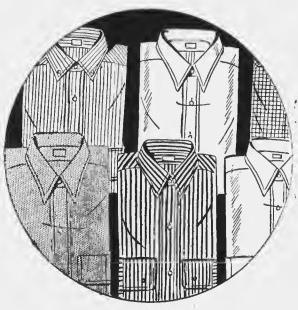

Unemployment is entirely caused by our system of taxation which penalizes every useful effort of man and appears to be concentrated with pecuniary pressure upon the builder and improver.

Civilization, on its economic side, consists in making and exchanging things and services. The legislators of every country in the world, in the last ten years, exhausted every expedient to limit or prevent the making, and especially the exchanging, of

When the architects and builders, yes and the realtors too, really understand the laws of political science, and especially those relating to taxation and the production and distribution of wealth, they will join in the great movement for the emancipation of humanity from a system of taxation which violates, not only sound economics, but sound morals, and which goes against principle, "The better you do for society the worse will society do for you."

How To Increase Land Values

In conclusion, the exemption of buildings from taxation will immediately create a demand for vacant land by builders. This will, in turn, produce a call for labor and for all building materials, solving to a large extent the employment problem. All municipalities have acquired vacant land through taxes, and can see that their lots would be saleable and would again be a source of revenue to them. The cost of relief would be reduced at once and the need disappear. An increase in the tax rate would be largely counterbalanced by the recovery of land values. This would materially increase the possible revenue of the municipality without penalizing industry and causing unemployment.

All Kinds of Weather

Heat, cold, snow, ice and dust experienced in less than twelve hours. Alwyn Hayson drove to Waterton Park, accompanied by some young friends. At one place in the park they had to push the car through some snow; while on one of the higher lakes plenty of ice was seen. During the afternoon they were sunburned, and to wind up the day the wind and dust-storm was experienced between Cowley and Bellevue. Variety is indeed the spice of life, especially in Alberta, in weather, in politics, and many other things.

A Living Fossil

Insect Must Be Kept On Ice Or It Will Die

The Royal Society of Canada was told of a living fossil, an insect with no close relatives among present-day insects and one which lives in such cold surroundings it dies from the heat of fire or in cold air if it is subjected to it.

The insect was described by E. M. Walker, professor of invertebrate zoology at the University of Toronto, in his presidential address before the biological sciences section of the society's 56th annual meeting. It lives in high mountains, usually near the edges of glaciers, and was first discovered in 1913 at Banff, Alta.

Grylloblatta—that is the insect's name—is light amber colored, wingless and about three-quarters of an inch long. Its life in low temperatures had slowed down all its bodily functions. It thrives when it is fed once in three or four months.

Most insects take only a few weeks to develop from the egg and one year to complete a life cycle. Grylloblatta takes five years to grow from egg to adult and seven years to produce a new generation. During a year it eats less than many insects do in a day, yet it is a cannibal. Specimens shipped alive from mountains to laboratories must be packed in separate containers and kept on ice. Otherwise they may eat each other or die of the heat.

The Age Of Radium

Fitchblends At Great Bear Lake Estimated At 1,300,000,000 Years

The radium being obtained from pitchblends at Great Bear Lake is 1,300,000,000 years old. The only man who could attempt such an estimate is Dr. Marcel Fochon who made it when he spoke at Port Hope, Ont., where a radium refining plant is located. He said the radium extracted of late may still be in use 10,000 years from now. After 30 years of production the world's radium supply is slightly over a pound.

At least 15,000 cars are destined for the junk pile within five years, it is said.

Charting New Ocean Currents Bottles Will Be Dropped Into Ocean At Different Points

The Scripps Institution of Oceanography has decided to give 6,000 quart wine bottles an opportunity to wander.

The bottles are to be thrown into the sea in an effort to trace, locate and chart ocean currents.

Each bottle will be filled with enough sand to make it stand upright and noted, placed in English and Spanish, asking the finder to send them back to the institution together with the necessary information as to where and when they were found.

The experiment is to be carried out at the time of the year when sardines are spawning and the findings are expected to have considerable influence on the question of whether the sardines of the California coast are the same as those found off Japan.

The bottles are to be dropped into the ocean in lots of 2,000 each at three different points where ocean currents are now known to exist, but where their full course is not specifically known.

The outcome of the finding is expected to demonstrate whether California sardines immediately move toward Japan via the Japanese current or whether they remain in home waters. If the sardines that Japanese are catching are really California sardines that have emigrated to the other side of the Pacific, California sardine fisheries think the Japanese catching should be limited.

An Attractive Hobby

Brandon Business Girls Interested In Moulding Pottery

Tucked away in a high-celling room in Brandon, where the sound of giant turbines of huge machinery hums a song of industry, is a studio where 18 potters mould their clay. These artists are business women, whose daily work takes them into offices, hospitals, factories or studies, and whose leisure is devoted to this hobby, says Norman Elliot in The Winnipeg Free Press.

Afternoon or evening Sunday or holiday, one can find some of the potters moulding dull gray Saskatchewan clay into shapely vases, bowls, candlesticks, book-ends, tall beautifully-formed lamps; squat, little fern stands; cups and saucers or tea pots and cream jugs. There is no potter's wheel to round out bowl or plate, just the hands of the women who are developing new talents and finding new interest.

Experiments are being made with a variety of clays, and there may be a day, not too far away, when a new field of pottery clay will be uncovered in the Brandon district. The group has a kiln and its baking experiments are directed by an instructor. Glazing materials are imported from England.

Movie Shows How

The barnyard hen is the heroine of the latest United States Government's three-reel sound production of the Agriculture Department. Scientists decided a talking picture would be a good way to teach farmers how to raise healthy hens that would lay more eggs and result in better and more fried chicken.

What The People Like

Stanley Baldwin Beloved On Account Of Human Qualities

Or the eight statesmen who have been at the helm of British politics during this century—Salisbury, Balfour, Campbell-Bannerman, Asquith, Lloyd George, Bonar Law, Ramsay MacDonald, Baldwin—it may be that the last was not the most distinguished but would that he was an exaggeration to say that he was the most beloved? The allegation of his party he was bound to support, he had saved it from possible disintegration in 1922, when led the revolt against continued support of the Lloyd George government. But the Englishman, whatever his political leanings, likes his leading public men to display other qualities than those incidental to political office. Mr. Baldwin revealed himself on many occasions as capable of charming public audiences when he spoke about books, farming, pigs, locomotives, classical studies, and the English countryside, for in these speeches he displayed the simplicity, sincerity, and humanity which go to the heart of mankind.—Melbourne Argus.

Requirements Are Stiff

For Women Who Qualify For Scotland Yard Police Force

Scotland Yard once more is advertising for women police.

Although applications have been pouring in from all types of women, including university graduates, most of these have been discouraged by the stiff requirements.

A woman candidate for the Metropolitan police force must be a paragon of virtue, intellect and beauty.

The qualities she must possess include a sound heart and lungs, good sight, hearing and speech, fine teeth, clean skin, good complexion, physical defects, an alert mind, graces of character and disposition, with emphasis on cleanliness, tolerance and sense of humor, and the ability to wear well any type of clothes from rough country tweeds to the most elaborate evening dresses.

Freshman: "Say, what's the idea of your wearing my raincoat?"

Rookie: "Well, you wouldn't want my new suit to get wet, would you?"

Accomplished Without Fuss

British Authorities Had Gigantic Task Handling Coronation Crowds

A cable despatch notes that London's underground railway system carried more than 6,000,000 passengers in 36 hours ending shortly after noon the day following the Coronation. There was not a single mishap and all trains ran within minutes of scheduled time.

Six million passengers comprise more than half the whole population of Canada. Or, to put it another way, the London underground carried passengers in 36 hours equal to every living soul in the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario.

This year is an extraordinary achievement. London, on Coronation Day, had more than 300,000 overseas visitors. In addition it had all of those who come from every country in Europe; had as well the hundreds of thousands that must have flowed into Scotland and the Province.

The handling of such a mighty throng, apart altogether from the Coronation procession itself, must have been a gigantic task. The British authorities did it with a minimum of fuss, with practically no accidents; took the thing in its stride.

And we speak of the English as people who "muddle through!"—Ottawa Journal.

Costly Violins Shown

Over $2,000,000 Insurance On Exhibit In Cremona, Italy

More than 200 rare violins covered by insurance exceeding $2,000,000 were displayed in Cremona, Italy, at opening of an exposition commemorating the 200th anniversary of the death of Antonio Stradivari, master violinmaker.

Crown Prince Umberto formally opened the exposition, which will last five months; tourists from many nations were present at the opening and Cremona, Stradivari's birthplace, got its greatest thrill since King Victor Emanuel's visit fourteen years ago.

Among the most famous instruments shown was Nicolo Paganini's violin, which the Italian virtuoso believed to be the city of Genoa. It was the first time the violin had been taken from its glass case in Genoa's Institute of Fine Arts.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 13
THE BROTHERLY LOVE OF JUDAH

Golden text: Let love of the brethren continue. Hebrews 13:1. Lesson: Genesis 42:1-45:15. Devotional reading: Psalm 26:1-7.

Explanations And Comments

Joseph's Ten Brothers Sent to Egypt to Buy Food, Genesis 42:1. Joseph recognizes his brothers and they have not heard him speak since the great famine do you recognize in this great governor of Egypt his brother Joseph. He is twenty years older than when they last saw him, but he looks like Egyptian, with a black wig which has so strange a headdress and his Egyptian costume, and he speaks with them through an interpreter as though he cannot understand their language. To test their characters and to learn about the affairs at home, Joseph accuses them of being spies. They are all honest, they have him bring them along, so he allows ten sons to risk their lives as spies. "The youngest is this day with our father, and one is not, yes, Benjamin." Joseph's tenth brother was three years old, but when Joseph was sold into Egypt he may not have fallen heir to his father's priesthood and his half-brother status. His father's influence wrought a change in the evil nature of these men; Joseph must put their characters to the test.

The brothers go back to Jacob, leaving Simeon in prison as hostage for their return with Benjamin, as Joseph requires. They are greatly troubled over the early need to grain the money that was paid for it. When they explain matters to Jacob, the aged father grieves saying, "You have brought me to my doom; Jacob says, "If you have brought me to my doom, my son will go with you."

The brothers sent again to Egypt, Father Benjamin goes with them. The grain has gone, and Jacob would send his son to Egypt for more. Judah refuses to go unless Benjamin accompanies him.

With double trouble and a present of balm, honey, spices and myrrh, they approach the Egyptian and his steward take them to his home and prepare a feast for them. The brothers wonder greatly at such treatment, but they suspect nothing when the great governor looks upon Benjamin and says,

"God be gracious to thee, my son," and then hurriedly leaves the room, thinking he knows that he has gone west for good.

Judah's Intercession for Benjamin, Genesis 43:14-34. Sincerity and depth of feeling mark Judah's plea to his brother. He recalls Joseph's mind—the great man who is "even as Pharaoh"—in which he had insisted upon the bringing of Benjamin to him. Very touchingly he recalls the reluctance of his brother to part with Benjamin, a reluctance overcome only by his hunger. His father had remained silent, thinking of his son's safety, but when he heard that his son had been sold into Egypt he burst into tears, "My son, my son, my son is lost." He then pleads with his brother to let him go to Egypt, "for I shall bear down my grey hairs with sorrow to the grave."

Manasseh Returns to Egypt, Genesis 45:1-15. The stern ruler breaks down at the insistence of his brother, and his brother's reluctance to part with Benjamin, a reluctance overcome only by his hunger. His father had remained silent, thinking of his son's safety, but when he heard that his son had been sold into Egypt he burst into tears, "My son, my son, my son is lost." A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside

By PATRICK SLATER

By arrangement with Thomas Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

After I had been knocking around Martin Kelly's a few days, she sent me down one afternoon on an errand to James O'Leary's farm on the next line. Mrs. O'Leary was as plump as a sack of grain; and the jolly, good-natured woman gave me a piece of bread with a thick spread of sugar. Her fat face puckered and cracked in a smile like potato bust in roasting.

It was the very day after I was there that a tree fell on Mr. O'Leary and killed the poor man entirely. With his sons he had been back chopping in the bush. In falling a maple the tree lodged on the limb of a large elm. The boys left it suspended thus, and went on to chop a tree standing near at hand. The thud of their next fall was so great that it shook the maple free, and it fell crushing their father to death.

Of course, there was no wake at the O'Learys'. The wind of the news was enough for me; and, with the fall of night, I slipped over to the house of the dead to see the doings.

"Gand e thar havn, Pat (how are ye, Paddy)?" the widow asked me kindly as I went into the house.

"Slanger a managooth (all right thankee)," I replied, doffing my caubain.

Then down on my knees I went before the body. My heart was fluttering like a little bird in your hand with fear Jimmie would jump out at me; but I let on to say out my prayers.

The rough pine coffin lay lidless on a bed in the corner of the ground floor of the cabin. It was a sedate and mournful meeting. With faces long drawn out, and solemn looking as owls, the men stood lining the walls, uttering pious sighs and, sometimes, scratching their polls. The women mourners sat on benches, and every few moments one of them would run her fingers through her hair and shrieked "Oh o o o oh! . . . Poor Jimmie!" Her body rocked to and fro as if it was gradually drawn down. At the end of the shroud fold it shewed again across her breast. Bitimes of the wealings, the men talked of crope and kine, and glancing now and again toward the body, in low guttural tones, made complimentary comments on the life, ancestry and character of the deceased. On entering the room of the dead, the mourner first knelt before the bier to say a prayer for Jimmie's soul; and then a drop of drink was taken. There was tobacco, snuff and whiskey in plenty. Pipes passed from mouth to mouth, and, in the flickering light of the candles, a haze hung in the room like the mist over a plowed field in the plow season.

A queer little old woman came in, all bent double; and after she knelt before the body, she shawled a tidy drop of poeten, and was given the honor of a chair. Someone thrust a freshly-filled pipe into the ashes and passed it to her.

"God and Mary bless his soul and the souls of all the dead," she sighed; and seated in comfort at her ease, she withdrew like a turtle in the privacy of her shawl.

The woman was short and dumpy like a cold winter's day; and she needed a pitch-dark night to make her good-looking. Mary Doyle went about the country-side, taking care of sick folk and visiting babies. She got a trifle for attending funerals because she was a special hand at keeping Devil a plisch of sorrow had she in her heart for the dead man in his going. The face of her was enough to sour a crock of cream.

The keen, which is a mournful ballad, has four feet to the line as sung in the Irish tongue; and it is only a diversion that makes an end to the number of its verses. Its general purpose is to excite pity, compassion, or hate; and to my mind it is specially effective when used to curse and blast the cruel and treacherous English. In spirit, both the keen and the wake itself, are utterly and entirely pagan. And why Mother Church let such rites get mixed up with the burial of her Christian dead is beyond me. The Irishman makes out a lot of unqualified grief; it has a deep and hopeless melancholy as its basis, and finds no place for the joy of the blessed resurrection. In a low tone Mary Doyle began the funeral song:

Cold and silent in his bed!
Och home!

Damp is the dew of night,
The sun brings warmth
And dries the dew,

But his heart will stay cold,
Machree!

Cold and silent is his repose!
He is gone forever,

He will return no more.
Cold and silent is his grave!

Och home, Machree!

The keener clapped her hands and rocked her body back and forth as the dirge stretched itself out in weird and melancholy repetition. One after another the other women joined in as a chorus; and their long drawn-out, sobbing wails and piercing shrieks rent the night air. Between whiles, a pipe passed along the benches from woman to woman. The creatures were enjoying themselves immensely.

The keening died down as a fresh group of neighbors arrived and attended to their religious duties.

Among them was my boss, Martin Kelly, who had enjoyed a life getting over with his bad foot. The corpse and Martin were boys from the same parish in the old sod. Yet for years back they had never met but the dirt of their bodies destroyed the place.

In parting, their sticks sharply shook at one another.

Only recently there had been a life giving over with the price of the O'Leary heifer.

Martin rose from his knees with tears of sorrow in his eyes. There was something truly affecting as the man stood, nodding his head solemnly, looking long into the face of his dead neighbor.

"Ah me!" said Martin Jimmy. "Jim O'Leary was a fine man. Ah! Jimmie makes a pretty corpse."

Then placing his rough hand on the pallid forehead, Martin sobbed out:

"Ah! cold as death is Jimmie's head!"

There are old cart-wheel tracks in every man's brain, and his thoughts slide into familiar trails without his let or hindrance. As Martin turned sedately from the bier to take his place in the crowd, the old fire sparked in his eyes, and, with a toss of his head, he exclaimed:

"But colder was the living heart of him!"

Pete O'Leary, the dead man's eldest son, leapt in the air like a goat.

In the wisp of an eye Martin and he were hoisting their chins into each other's faces. Pete, who was a chunky young fellow, made a smart pass at Martin's jaw, but failed to make connections. Martin was an old man and a cripple; but he was slim and long bodied. Quick as a flash, he brought his skull down crack with a vicious butt hitting Pete's face on the line where the eyebrows grow. It was a knockout pass he gave him; and down Pete went to kiss the floor boards.

Trailing his bad foot and coat along the floor, Martin shouted:

"May the devil sweep all the O'Learys' together!"

Pete's wife threw her shawl off and rushed screaming to put the prick of youth into the pride of the O'Learys'.

"Holy Mary! Pit my heart to be married to a good-for-nothing-at-all!"

The woman exclaimed as she set upon the wounded man and behaved him onto his feet again.

The O'Learys' did then be letting matters into Martin Kelly with their sticks; and shellalaghs and wallopers came smartly into action.

The women bawled themselves hoarse directing the fray, and men were running about with cracked pates, themselves roaring out that they were killed entirely. A fat little fellow on our side was giving blood like a stuck pig; but the O'Leary faction also had plenty of blood to drink. It was a roaring ruction, and everyone felt afterwards it had been highly complimentary to the corpse we were watching.

The arrival of Jimmie's cousin bearing an elegant pig hot-roasted from a spit made a sudden diversion that broke up the brawl. Four men were bearing the savory beast on a litter; and the way of the procession was lit by lanterns made by sticking candles through broken bottoms into the necks of bottles.

My heart beat like a watch with the delight of the smell of the roasted pig. I sat down on my heels, and kept a cat's eye on the vultures. Meat and drink were ordained by custom

Tragic Death of Young Man in Mine

Fred Goldring Instantly Killed in Coal Chute in McGillivray Mine

Reported to have been attempting to dislodge coal in a chute at McGillivray mine on Thursday morning, Fred Goldring, 19 years, was instantly killed when the coal descended and swept him down the chute. It is surmised that he was stunned by the falling coal and becoming buried was suffocated before he could be extricated.

The body was taken to the undertaking parlor here at 1 p.m. to await the coroner's inquest.

His father is employed in the mine. The victim of this tragedy is the second of a family of three boys and two girls.

Besides his parents, there is an older sister, Mrs. Krish; Tom and Jack, brothers, and Edna, the youngest of the family. He was born in Goldthorpe, Yorkshire, Eng. June 21, 1917, and was just ten days short of 20 years of age. He came here with his parents thirteen years ago.

Heartfelt sympathy is expressed on all sides in this tragic bereavement.
